“A Gleeful Song” for Greater Nassau Chorus

December 6, 2009—Baldwin’s Greater Nassau Chorus of Sweet Adelines International was featured on CBS News Sunday Morning for the nationally-broadcast segment, “A Gleeful Song.” This segment highlighted the renewed popularity of glee clubs and show choirs in America since the hit TV series, “Glee.” Mo Rocca first featured Central Ohio's Olentangy High School Show Choir, the Keynotes, whose members discussed how their hard work paid off in excitement, achievement, and confidence. Then, through his visit with Greater Nassau Chorus, Rocca showed how such aspects of “show choir” membership persist and develop beyond the school years. During interviews with Rocca, Master Director, Harriette Walters, as well as veteran members, Arlene Oberhofer, Sylvia Giallombardo, and Blanche Justice spoke about the relationships and teamwork essential to the growth, enjoyment, and success of the ensemble, a theme which resonates with many Sweet Adelines choruses and quartets. During the segment, GNC was also featured singing portions of “Ain't No Mountain High Enough” and “I Never Knew / I’m Getting Married in the Morning.” A full transcript of the show can be found at the CBS
